of withholding two switches of aging to Mrs. Annie M. Dunhair belonging to Mrs. Annie M. Dun-bar, of this city, was disminated in the Folice Court this morning, following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Har-ris White, who sat in the case. Justice White, in disminsing the case, ruled that it was one for a civil court. Immediately after the disminsal of the case. Attorney Crandal Mackey, on be-half of Mrs. Vickers, entered suit in the Circuit Court.for this city to recover damages in the sum of $5,000 from Mrs. Dumbar.

The question of having the Bible read in the public schools here is again being signated by the Ministerial Association of the city, they having some time since put the matter up to the local school board. The committee on discipline of that hody has recommended that this question be submitted to the various re-ligious bodies of the city that they may select from the Bible whatever excerpts they may deem proper to be read.

Mayor Woody, a nonrealdent, reports to the police that he was knocked down by two white men yesterday afterneon, while in the northeastern section of the city, and "rolled" for $15. The police have taken in custody a man giving the name of Charles Perry, twenty-one years old, who says his house is in Washington on suspicion of knowing something of the affair.

The committee from the chamber of commerce which attended the good roads rally in Manassas yesterday, made its report this afternoon at a meeting of the board of directors of that institution.

The "Old Polks Concert" was given by a number of young people this avening at the Del Ray echosin-use, Alexandria County. Funds derived from the affair will be for the benefit of the Del Ray Methodist Church.

Harry Patterson Hopkins, organist of the Franklin Street Presbyterian Church, the Frankin Breet Fresbyterian Church. Bultimore, to-night gave an organ recital at the Second Presbyterian Church. He was assisted by Miss Mary Brewington, Mrs. Valentine created a ripple of laughter by asserting that from time immemorial the women of Virginia had been praised like angels, but when it came to voting they were, under the Constitution, placed in a class with both the child, hunait, and idlot. The speaker referred to the progress of New Zealand, where equal suffrage prevails.

A short address in the beginning was minde by Representative C. C. Carlin, who introduced the speakers. He asserted he had carefully avoided taking sides on this issue, but he added: "When worshipful company of "broiderers," better the had carefully avoided taking sides on this issue, but he added: "When worshipful company of the characteristics of the various specimens of experted he had carefully avoided taking sides on this issue, but he added: "When worshipful company of the characteristics of the various specimens of the Noedic," arranged from the classified on this tenue, but he was added to a speaker that the movement of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified of the Noedic, arranged from the classified on the classified on the classified of the Noedic of the Noedic

The escape of the French Capt. from the German fortrees of Glaiz, where he was imprisoned for espinasage, despits the fact that he had pledged "his word as an officer and gentleman" not to shuse the confidence reposed in him by his conference of the German army, and the jubilant reception accorded him on his return to France as a "hero" by the milliany authorities, the French minister of war ordering him refustated in his formal position and regiment, does he speaked the second of the property of the fortress permitted that Frenchman to be treated as an army officer, despite the fortress permitted that Frenchman to be treated as an army officer, despite the fact that be had been convicted of a crime by a civil tribunal; when he granted him privileges and the freedom to the casemates, asking in return nothing biaths word of humor not to abuse such fraterial treatment and hospitality, he depended upon that which officers of all armise are supposed to value above everything else—the military henor. This the French captain abused, and for doing so he was received as a hero by his comrades in the army of France, relate, Germany cought to be used to just this sort of treatment on the part of French officers. For the identical thing occurred forty-two years ago during the France-rimany ought to be used to just this sort of treatment on the part of French officers. For the identical thing occurred forty-two years ago during the France-rimany ought to be under their word of honor, while prisoners of war in Prussian fortreases and secaped, though treated with accomplical kindness and leniency and held virtually by their borders and leniency and held virtually by their bars word not to shame such "commandedic." That was had enough. But, instead of heing regulated by their brothers in-arms as perjurers, as not worthy to wear the uni-comminded.

This is difficult to believe, but I am quoting historical facts. The only thing that was asked in this unheard-of compromise with honor was that they had to re-enter the French army under a different name. I recall the case of Lieut. Col. Jean Thiboudin, one of those who escaped after pledating his word of honor, "as an officer and sentleman," not to do so. So little did his perjury stand in the way of his future career that he even rose to the dignity of a portfolio and became minister of war.

It was in the days of the Pallieres cahnet. The present (seventh) President of the third Franch republic, Armand Pallieres, was facing a crists. Gen. Billiot, his war secretary, had resigned his position rather than execute the law pussed by both houses of the French. Diet, which ordered the expulsion of all princes of the House of Orieans from the army of the republic, Pallieres hunted hish and low, but, to their credit be it recorded, not one of the French generals could be found willing to do the law's bidding-to legalize a measure which was condemned by the entire army. This is difficult to believe, but I am Crecks tried hard to have their national aint and patron restored to their capital. The leaders got up a subscription and offered King Frederick quite a big sum of money in exchange for the moment. But the "Alto Fritz" decided otherwise. St. Nepomuk was to remain just where he was—on the roof of the dungeon at Glatz—but if the Cracks would be willing to pay him one-half of the profiered amount he was ready to place their patron saint so that his face and hands, raised in an attitude of bleesing, would be turned tuward their beloved Bohemis.

This was done, and St. Nepomuk "faced about" by order of the King, a position which he occupies to this day.
